President's Report

Dr. Loveday reported on four items.

- 1) CPTC is participating in a collaborative Ad campaign with the three other Pierce County colleges. The campaign promotes our bachelor's programs, encouraging prospective students that a bachelor's degree is within reach.
- 2) Prior to the past year, CPTC did not participate in College in the High School due to the cost to the students. The Washington state legislature removed the student cost in the last biennium, and CPTC is now been working with high schools to expand opportunities for students. Jason Boatwright, Jessica Dempsey, and Dr. Broxson have been developing the program. Last week CPTC made presentations regarding the program at the annual retreat of the Washington Association for Career and Technical Education. Dr. Loveday thanked Dr. Broxson, Jason Boatwright, Jessica Dempsey, Rosie Watson, and Samantha Dana for their support of the program and the presentations at this statewide event.
- 3) Last Friday and Saturday our teaching and learning center hosted an artificial intelligence (AI) institute including tracks for: beginners, ethical considerations, and practical applications. 400 participants were attracted, including national leaders in higher education. Kristen Copeland and her team planned and organized the event utilizing CPTC staff and faculty. Dr. Loveday offered her thanks for their work and to Dr. Broxson for making professional development a priority in support of our faculty.
- 4) Finally, Dr. Loveday wanted to make special note that this is Carol Mitchell's last regular meeting as a trustee. Trustee Mitchell has had a significant impact during a period of great transformation for the college. She has provided excellent perspective in her contributions to the trustees' end results and policy development. She has been a guiding influence to the direction of the college and development of the strategic plan adopted last year. As a local leader, she has helped us understand trends in the community. She asks tough questions, expects accountability, and provides an excellent role model.

Trustee Mitchell is particularly good at identifying areas where action can be taken to affect a difference. An example of her engagement occurred when she volunteered to attend the Achieving the Dream conference to further her awareness of the work being done nationally to close equity gaps and to apply that information at CPTC.

Trustee Mitchell said that five years went quickly. In that time, she has learned a lot about how the college functions. It has been a great opportunity for her. She will continue to interact with the college.

Trustee Taylor said that Trustee Mitchell embodies "black girl magic" in real life. He said he has been privileged to sit next her for five years.

College Reports or Highlights

4th Quarter Financial Report (Tab 2)

Amelia Grayson presented a report on CPTC's financials, noting that they are preliminary and unaudited. Technically CPTC has not yet closed fiscal year 2024. Nevertheless, the figures she presented provide a fairly clear picture. Ms. Grayson wanted to bring the board's attention to the year's shortfall, which is 2.6 million instead of the expected 3.4 million. There will be some adjustments that will balance capital debt.

In October we will be able to present final figures and the FY 2025 budget.

Trustee Taylor asked for a disaggregated list of dedicated fees by program. Ms. Grayson said that she will provide this for the board.

As a final note, Ms. Grayson spoke about the clean buildings act, which required all state facilities to comply with very exacting environmental rules. We have just learned that due to hard work by Chris Ridler and Wes Prater, CPTC is the first college in the state to become certified.

Union Update

Diane Follet, Lisa Fortson, Susan Hoppe, and Kimberly Bills, provided an update from each of the four unions at CPTC. Ms Fortson, representing AFT, stated that she is in solidarity with the other unions.

Ms. Hoppe noted that the classified union will be having a membership meeting in Fall. They will determine what is important for them to negotiate for their next contract at that time. There will also be elections in the spring for officers. Currently classified union positions are being reviewed by Human Resources. The union has been working with James Neblett, who has done a great job.

Ms. Follet said that the faculty union is solidifying high demand funding specifics. She stated that the unions are still feeling the impact of underfunding and turn-over in Human Resources. We need to stabilize the department going forward.

Enrollment Update (Tab 3)

Dean Kelly and Dr. Tom Broxson presented an update on CPTC enrollment. They were happy to have good news to report – we appear to be on an upswing from our enrollment low with good enrollment growth in many programs. . A more thorough update will be provided at the board retreat August 16. We are trying to grow capacity where demand warrants. The highest growth is in Transitional Studies, Welding, Esthetics, HVAC, and Cosmetology.

Some of the upswing has to do with our work on retention methodologies such as increasing professional development for faculty to improve the quality of education. We are also providing faculty better data so that they can see where progress is best.

Students come to CPTC in different ways and currently have different experiences based on how they come to the college. We are working to make the entry experience more consistent. Palmer Scholars partnership is another area of development.

We are also using multiple tools to help us see where students are having problems so they can be addressed early.

Our continuing work to address equity gaps also helps to retain students through completion.

Trustee Mitchell has noticed that we are making good progress in getting Adult Basic Education into short term certificate programs.

Trustee Taylor commended the college for the enrollment progress.

Corporate Education Update (Tab 4)

Don Sosnowski presented an update on CPTC's Corporate Education program. He noted that the program has a unique focus on customized training. Students are provided by client organizations. Originally corporate education was offered through Invista Performance Solutions, a partnership of TCC, Pierce College, and CPTC. It is now entirely contained within CPTC.

We are looking forward to good growth in fiscal year 2025 thanks to many long-standing and productive community partnerships as well as development of new collaborative programming.

Corporate Education is able to promote CPTC programs and they assist in bridging students from Corporate Education toward College programs. They also support industry through Washington's Job Skills Programs and lead the state in the number of JSP grants they administer.

Trustee Mitchell noted that before being a trustee she had purchased services through Invista and it was very effective.

Trustee Taylor encourage Corporate Education to work with the chambers of commerce for promotion and collaboration.

Grand Opening of MEC

Jovan McCoy announced the grand opening of the Male Engagement Center (MEC) on October 2, 2004, from 4:00 to 6:00 p.m. The staff is planning a special event. The center's intent is to create a more inclusive culture of care for black male students. As the MEC enters the second year of operation, related programming is moving from pilot to permanent status.

Mr. McCoy noted that the program is being monitored nationally as a model that may work elsewhere.

Chair's Report

Trustee Villegas Rivera stated that he had nothing to report except that he is happy to be here every month and is looking forward to the MEC grand opening Approval is needed from CPTC Trustees and the State Board to seek legislative authority to purchase real estate through a Certificate of Purchase (COP) or other alternative funding.

Authorization

The amount authorized by the legislature is the ceiling we can borrow through a COP.

It can include funding for tenant improvements.

Once COP authority is in place, there is no requirement to use it.

Spending authority is for the biennium.

Hypothetical Projection

ONE POTENTIAL SCENARIO		CONSERVATIVE COP ESTIMATE
Total Cost	$15 M	Amount to Borrow through COI	$6 M
Minus Grant Funding	9 M	Payoff Period	Up to 25 years
Amount to finance	$6 M	Pessimistic COP Loan Rate	4.33%

Trustee Request: Vote on whether you approve CPTC to seek spending authority from the State Board and Legislature for a $15M real estate acquisition.

LEGISLATIVE APPROVAL DOES

NOT OBLIGATE THE COLLEGE TO

TAKE ANY ACTION ON THE SPENDING AUTHORITY.

CPTC TRUSTEES WILL BE INVOLVED IN ANY PURCHASE.

ALTERNATIVE FUNDING IS BEING SOUGHT AS PART OF THE COLLECTIVE ACTION THAT IS OCCURRING.

AN INTERLOCAL AGREEMENT WILL BE DEVELOPED IN THE COMING MONTHS TO CLARIFY CONTRIBUTIONS, ROLES, RESPONSIBILITIES, ETC.

RESOLUTION 24-10-111

Legislative Request for Certificate of Purchase Authority

WHEREAS, Clover Park Technical College is working collectively with regional partners to increase green jobs workforce training on Tacoma's Eastside, an underserved area with disproportionately high percentages of immigrants and low-income black and brown community members; and

WHEREAS, Clover Park Technical College is dedicated to increasing economic mobility for low-income, underserved communities and has been working with Achieving the Dream toward a community vibrancy plan for the Eastside community; and

WHEREAS, the industrial space at 6002 E McKinley Avenue, Tacoma, leased by Clover Park Technical College for the coming year has been identified as appropriate for green jobs construction and trades training; and

WHEREAS, opportunities currently exist to apply for federal funding to pay a portion of building costs related to green jobs workforce training; and

WHEREAS, legislative approval is required for real estate to be acquired through a Certificate of Purchase or alternative funding; and

WHEREAS, the full cost of purchase (including tax, closing costs, and building improvements) may be included in the legislative request, with legislative approval serving as a ceiling for what can be borrowed through the Certificate of Purchase program; and

WHEREAS, legislative approval gives authority to purchase property during the biennium for which it is approved and does not require the college to use all or any of the purchasing authority;

NOW, THEREFORE, BE IT RESOLVED the Board of Trustees hereby authorizes the College President to request legislative authority for financing up to $15,000,000 through a Certificate of Purchase or alternative funding source.

ADOPTED by the Board of Trustees at a Regular Meeting on October 9, 2024.
